Test Item Analysis Calculator 2019 Test Item Analysis will be accomplished right after the quarterly examination. Item analysis is intended to assess and improve the reliability of your tests. If test reliability is low, test validity will necessarily also be low. This is the ultimate reason you do test item analysis - to improve the validity of a test by improving its reliability. Item analysis is a process which examines student responses to multiple choice test items in order to assess the quality of those items and of the test as a whole. Item analysis is especially valuable in improving items which will be used again in later tests, but it can also be used to eliminate ambiguous or misleading items in a single test administration. In addition, item analysis is valuable for increasing instructors' skills in test construction, and identifying specific areas of course content which need greater emphasis or clarity. NEW! Test Item Analysis Calculator 2019 Test Item Analysis Calculator 2019 Reviewed by Deped Tambayan on 8:30 PM Rating: 5 Real Statistics Data Analysis Tool: Real Statistics' Reliability data analysis tool can be used for Item Analysis, as described in the following example. Example 1: Repeat Example 1 from Partial Score for Item Analysis using the Reliability data analysis tool (the data is reproduced in Figure 1 below). Figure 2 – Data for Example 1 Press Ctrl-m and select the Item Analysis option from the Corr tab. If using the original user interface, after pressing Ctrl-m, select the Reliability option and then select the Item Analysis option from the dialog box that appears. In either case, fill in the dialog box that appears as shown in Figure 1. Figure 2 – Reliability data analysis tool dialog box Note that we have specified that the first row of the Input Range consists of column headings and the last row contains the maximum score for each question (if this option is not checked then it is assumed that each item is worth 1 point). The discrimination cutoff is set to the default of .27. The output is shown in Figure 3. Don't worry though, you can become literate in your test results. This guide will help you to better understand basic definitions and get a sense of how information on a typical report is organized and presented, allowing you to interpret your test results with confidence.Complete Blood CountThe complete blood count (CBC), focuses on the health of three types of blood cells; red blood cells, white blood cells and platelets. This screening tool helps your doctor identify allergies and infections, or to diagnose potential diseases and conditions like anemia and leukemia.White blood cells, also called leukocytes, are a major component of the body's immune system. Your body produces more white blood cells if you have an allergic reaction or infection.Red Blood Cell (RBC)Red blood cells deliver oxygen to tissues throughout the body. A high RBC count may be the result of kidney problems, a heart condition, or dehydration. Low RBC counts can indicate nutritional deficiency, bone marrow damage, kidney problems, or anemia.Hemoglobin, Hematocrit, Mean Corpuscular Value (MCV), Mean Corpuscular Hemoglobin (MCH)These blood test results often appear under the RBC section, because they further examine the function and health of your RBCs. Hemoglobin is measured to help determine if your organs and tissues are receiving enough oxygen. Hematocrit results show the volume of blood taken up by the RBCs. This helps to determine if you have too high or too low of a red blood cell count. Blood cells are often referred to as corpuscles, and the mean corpuscular value measures the average size of RBCs. Abnormal sized red blood cells may indicate a vitamin B12 deficiency or anemia. Mean corpuscular hemoglobin measure the average amount of hemoglobin inside red blood cells. It's often evaluated along with the mean corpuscular hemoglobin concentration (MCHC), which measure the average percentage of hemoglobin in red blood cells.Platelets and Mean Platelet Value (MVP)Platelets are fragments of blood cells. Low platelet count can indicate risk of excessive bleeding, while high platelet counts may indicate risk of blood clots. The MVP test measures the average amount of platelets and may reveal subtle disorders when platelet counts are normal.Basophils, Eosinophils, Neutrophils, Lymphocytes, and MonocytesThe results of these five types of white blood cells often appear below the list of RBC results. The health and amount of these cells is helpful in identifying allergies and infections. For instance, basophils have small particles with enzymes that are released during asthma or an allergic reaction.Comprehensive Metabolic Panel (CMP)This group of tests provides a broad picture of the body's chemical balance and metabolism, as well as providing information about its electrolytes. Common electrolytes tested are calcium, chloride, phosphorous, magnesium, sodium and potassium. The CMP often measures chemicals and substances such as albumin, bilirubin and creatinine. Too much bilirubin could indicate jaundice, while low levels of albumin can indicate inflammation, malnutrition and liver or kidney disease. Elevated levels of creatinine can indicate poor kidney function.Fasting Glucose TestThe fasting glucose test is another part of the CMP test, and abnormal levels of glucose can be a sign of diabetes.
